Projects

Main Portfolio: keithbillings.github.io/

Party Planning Committee - A fullstack application created with a group which allows a user to save information about a get together they want to share with others. Saves and maps out the address of the event, has a message board to save comments, and saves contact information of all guests attending.

Uses MySQL as the database, Google Maps API, and AJAX calls another API for quotes in the header.

About Your Birthday - An application where a user can input the date of their birthday and receive a lot of interesting information in return. The app will give them the top movie of their birth year, their zodiac sign and horoscope, what space looked like on their birthday last year using NASA photos and video, interesting facts about the specific numbers involved in their birthday, and which celebrities they share their birthday with.

This app uses many API calls to pull the information needed
